Tito Denounces Soviet Premier, Applauds U. S.

50,000 Cheer Praise Of American Aid

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito accused Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev Sunday of insulting Yugoslavia and to the cheers of a crowd of 50,000, praised the United States.

In an hour-long speech at the coal-mining town of Labin, Tito turned on Khrushchev for assailing Yugoslav at the recent congress of the Bulgarian Communist party in Sofia.

Tito declared the renewed Soviet-bloc campaign against Yugoslavia's independent brand of communism had worsened Belgrade's relations with Russia, the Eastern Communist nations and Red China. And he promised to fight "to a victorious end."

He said Eastern Communist leaders were lying to their people and that Red China rushed into the anti-Yugoslav campaign to cover up trouble at home.

"In attacking Yugoslavia," Tito said, "Comrade Khrushchev used words which have nothing in common with comradely criticism. He insulted not only the Yugoslav leadership but the Yugoslav people too."

Tito said Khrushchev blasted Yugoslavia for accepting U.S. aid

British Ask U.S. To Push Cyprus Plan

Eisenhower Urged To Use Influence With Turks, Greeks

LONDON (AP)—Britain is looking for U.S. support on the power keg issue of Cyprus which has NATO allies Greece and Turkey glowering at each other on the alliance's eastern flank.

Prime Minister Macmillan is reported to have appealed to President Eisenhower to use his influence with Turkey and Greece to accept a British cooling-off plan for Cyprus pending a final settlement. Turkey and Greece both have claims on the strategic island, a British crown colony.

The explosive nature of the dispute was underscored Saturday with the abrupt withdrawal of all Greeks from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's headquarters at Izmir, on Turkey's east coast.

No Advance Notice
NATO officers at that Southeast European Command post said they were not even notified in advance that an airlift was coming to fly all Greek military and civilian personnel back to Greece.

In Athens, a high Greek government source defended the secrecy, indicating the Greeks were pulled out to escape possible mob violence from Turks inflamed over the Cyprus issue.

In Ankara, Turkish Foreign Minister Fatin Rustu Zorlu issued a statement declaring the Greek action "will be harmful for the solidarity of the free world and the NATO alliance."

3,000 Paratroops To Move In
Britain is flying 3,000 crack paratroops to Cyprus to head off violence by Greek and Turkish Cypriots when London announces its plans for the future of that British colony island this week.

There was a growing feeling in London toward internationalizing the dispute in the east Mediterranean island, a key base in the Western defense system.

Macmillan is determined to go ahead and present the British proposals before Parliament, possibly Tuesday in the face of likely rejection by Athens and Ankara.

The British plan—privately disclosed to Greece and Turkey a few days ago—is understood to offer Cypriots limited self-government immediately.

Ship Engineer Strike Looms

NEW YORK (AP)—Negotiations between East and Gulf Coast shipbuilders and marine engineers broke down Sunday night, and the engineers union said it would follow a "no contract, no work" policy after its contract expired at midnight.

Just what effect a walkout of freighter and passenger ship engineers would have on East Coast shipping was not clear. It conceivably could eventually tie up 700 ships using East and Gulf Coast ports.

Earlier in the evening, the National Maritime Union said tentative agreement had been reached with the shippers, providing for no pay increase in the new contract. The NMU represents about 40,000 unlicensed seamen. The engineers are represented by the Marine Engineers Beneficial Assn.

U.S. To Try New Tact In Seeking Release Of Nine

BERLIN (AP)—U.S. officials framed a new approach to the East German Communists Sunday in hopes of winning the speedy release of the nine U.S. Army prisoners.

Responsible diplomatic sources said U.S. Army and State Department officials worked out a formula over the weekend to counter the terms of the Foreign Ministry in East Berlin.

Upon it seems to hang the freedom of the Americans—eight officers and a sergeant of the 3rd Armored Division in West Germany, who fell into East German hands when their helicopters strayed across the Iron Curtain June 7.

When U.S. Col. Robert P. McQuail Saturday opened negotiations, the East German Foreign Ministry demanded that he show he is competent to deal on an intergovernmental level.

Obviously eager to gain more international face for his regime, Dep. Foreign Minister Otto Winzer promised a quick settlement of the case if this condition was met. The West has refused to recognize the East German regime.

McQuail, chief liaison officer to the Russian army in East Germany, made the first official U.S. contact with the East Germans on orders of Gen. H. I. Hodes, U.S. commander in chief for Europe. The contact was made with the approval of the State Department.

Army and State Department spokesmen in Berlin and Bonn, the West German capital, refused to say what McQuail's approach to the East Germans will be when he tries again Monday.

Showdown Battle

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Government forces have landed near Menado and have launched a two-pronged drive on that last rebel holdout city in North Celebes the army said Sunday.

The anti-government forces are expected to make a last-ditch stand in the volcano-framed city.

Al Williams, Aggressive Air Pioneer, Dies At 67

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP)—Maj. Alford (Al) Williams, 67, one of American aviation's most aggressive pioneers, died at a hospital here Sunday. He had been seriously ill a week after a period of declining health.

Williams bought a farm near here in 1940 and went into semi-retirement in 1949. He named the farm "Eyre—Eagle's Nest."

His work as a chief test pilot for the Navy won him a Distinguished Flying Cross in 1929. He was praised as one of the pioneers of high-speed flight in the accompanying citation.

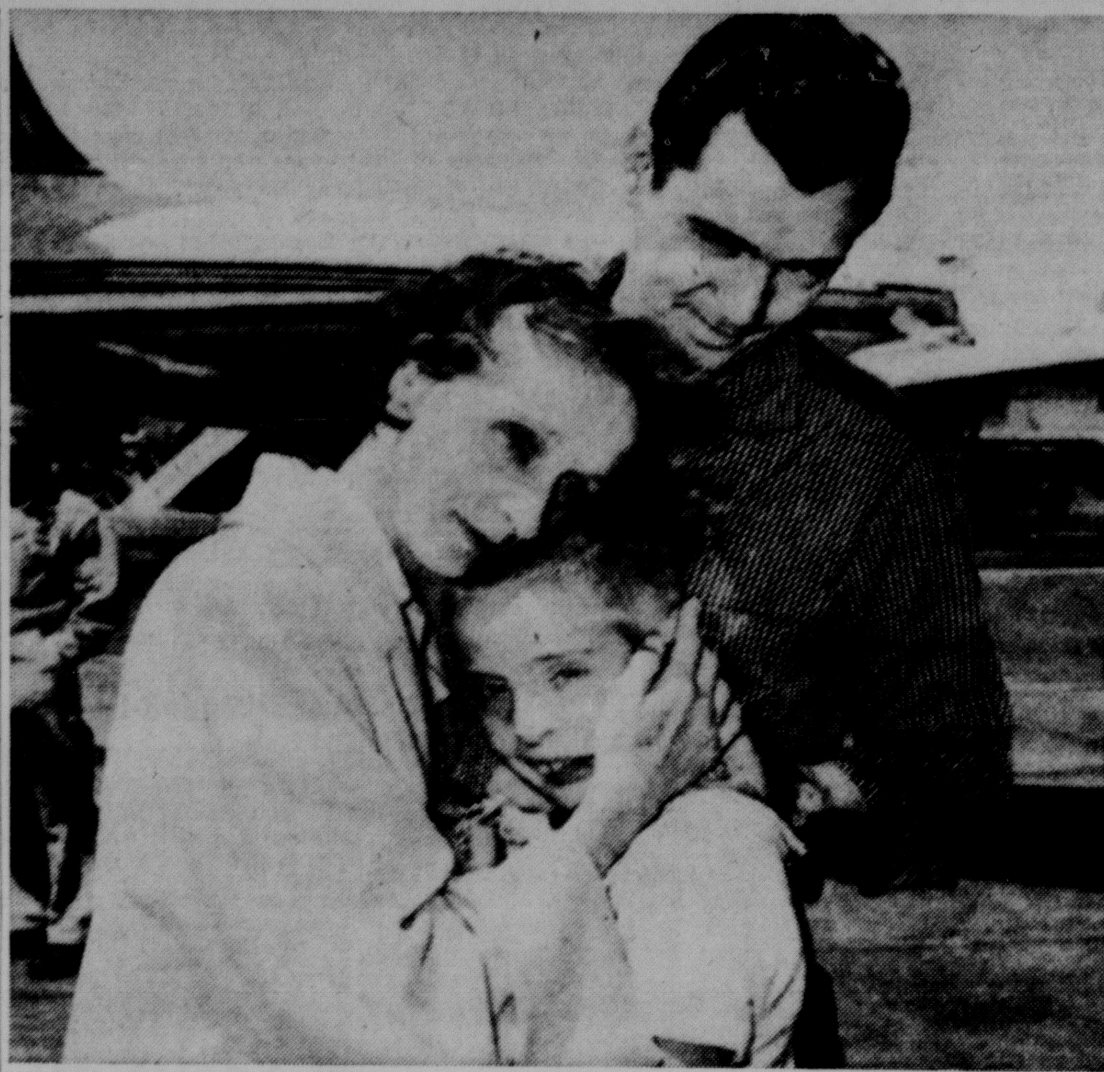

Williams was born in New York City and graduated from Fordham University. He enlisted in the Navy in World War I and resigned in 1930 with the rank of senior lieutenant. He joined the Marine Corps as a captain, resigning in 1940 with the rank of major.

He flew around the country in a single-seat fighter plane, the Gulfhawk, now enshrined in the Smithsonian Institution as "the plane that taught young America to fly."

He perfected the technique of inverted flying and conceived the dive-bombing technique during vertical speed trials 35 years ago. He long championed the cause of a separate air force.

During his career he also graduated from Georgetown University with a bachelor of laws degree, was admitted to the New York State bar and became the first man to fly 300 miles an hour.

Season's First Tropical Storm Disintegrating

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—The first tropical storm of the season, Alma, was disintegrating over the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas and Mexico Sunday. Heavy rain was expected in its wake.

Alma whipped in from the Gulf of Mexico to lash some areas with torrential rains and winds that reached 50 m.p.h. It was expected to bring heavy rain into the Eagle Pass, Tex., area Sunday night and early Monday and cause precipitation in central Texas.

The Weather Bureau said at mid-afternoon Sunday the storm moved north-northwest and was becoming disorganized as it moved up the Rio Grande.

The Weather Bureau predicted locally heavy rains up to 5 inches are likely in central Texas. Beaches south of Corpus Christi will be awash and small craft south of Galveston were warned to remain in port. Winds of 20 to 35 m.p.h. were expected to diminish gradually along the Texas coast Sunday night.

Further bulletins will be issued only if heavy rains are widespread enough to pose a flood threat, the bureau added.

Reports reaching Mexico City said winds of hurricane force in the Gulf of Mexico sank three boats Saturday. Details were not available immediately.

Alma went inland in the same general area where Hurricane Alice in 1954 caused major flooding along the Rio Grande, which forms the Texas-Mexico border. As much as 25 inches of rain drenched some points in 1954, filling the International Falcon Dam reservoir for the first time.

Senate Nears Labor Bill Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate heads into a fourth long day of debate Monday on a labor control bill. Republicans contend the measure lacks sufficient teeth to shut off racketeering practices.

With many amendments yet to be voted on, several of them highly controversial, there was some doubt whether the bill can be acted on finally before Tuesday. However, Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas said he hopes for a final vote by Monday night under an agreement limiting debate.

Before quitting Saturday night, Johnson worked out the debate limitation with Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California.

Under the agreement, the Senate will permit half an hour of debate on any of the more than 30 amendments still pending or any new amendment offered. It also will allow six hours of general debate on final passage of the bill.

The Senate has beaten down repeated Republican efforts to make major changes in the legislation, which is designed to assure greater democracy in labor unions and to curb any corruption by labor officials.

Ex-FTC Head Denies Goldfine Accorded Special Treatment

Tempest Around Adams Rages On

WASHINGTON (AP)—A former chairman of the Federal Trade Commission said Sunday Sherman Adams' wealthy Boston friend, Bernard Goldfine, was treated "no differently from anyone else" in his case with the FTC.

Edward F. Howrey, onetime FTC chairman now in private law practice, made that comment in an interview when asked about the Goldfine-FTC situation as outlined by Adams last week in a letter to Chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark) of the House subcommittee checking regulatory agencies.

Harris called Howrey and present FTC officials for testimony Monday as political reverberations continued to swirl about charges that Adams, President Eisenhower's chief assistant, had accepted expensive gifts from Goldfine.

Adams' wife said the Democrats are "just going to hound him until he has to leave." She was quoted in an interview copyrighted by the Minneapolis Tribune and Des Moines Register.

Adams has acknowledged frequent stays at a Boston hotel, for which Goldfine paid the bills. But he denounced as "unwarranted and unfair" what he called subcommittee insinuations that he obtained favored federal treatment for the Boston industrialist.

Sen. Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.) said that unless Adams explains further the alleged gifts from Goldfine, "then I cannot condone his conduct." Thye became the fifth GOP senator up for re-election this year to speak critically in public of Eisenhower's right-hand man. Others have included Sens. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md.), Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.), Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.) and John J. Williams (R-Del.).

Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla.), chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee predicted Democrats would find political ammunition in the Adams affair in this fall's campaign.

"Mr. Adams appointed himself the conscience of the world and led the attack on what he called Democratic 'corruption' in the 1952 campaign," Smathers commented in an interview.

"When it turns out that such a man has feet of clay," Smathers added, "you could hardly blame any Democrat who suffered through that campaign if he called attention to Mr. Adams' actions."

"It will be interesting to see if President Eisenhower still retains confidence in Mr. Adams after these disclosures."

Thye said he was "saddened" by White House failure to answer charges that Adams received a $700 vicuna coat and a $2,400 Oriental rug from Goldfine.

"If that is true, it is improper," Thye said.

"Mr. Adams should give a full and complete explanation of all that has happened. He should furnish positive evidence that he did not assist his friend in any way with government agencies."

The only damage to the priceless Raphael was a slight scar near the Virgin's knee. Gallery officials said it could be repaired easily.

Early Summit Talks Unlikely, Dulles Says
WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said Sunday it will be several months before the United States decides whether to agree to a summit conference.

Dulles took a dim view of any speedy meeting of big power chiefs of government even as the Soviets pressed President Eisenhower with a new note on a summit gathering. The Reds have been accusing Dulles of stalling, a charge denied by the State Department.

Terre Haute Braces For Flood Crest

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP)—A state of emergency was declared at Terre Haute Sunday as a Wabash River crest 14 feet over flood stage bore down on the city.

Gov. Harold W. Handley declared the emergency at the request of local officials, who were worried that an earthen levee protecting West Terre Haute might give way and let floodwaters loose on 40 per cent of the community.

West Terre Haute has a population of 4,000.

Extra state police were rushed into the Terre Haute area, near the Indiana-Illinois border 90 miles southwest of Indianapolis. Sixty National Guard troops were called to duty and 40 prisoners from the nearby state penal farm were brought under guard to sandbag weak points on the levee.

The Wabash reached 27.6 feet at noon Sunday with a predicted crest at noon Monday of 28 feet. Flood level is 14 feet, and the forecast crest would be about three feet higher than the river reached in the 1950 flood. The record is 31.3 feet in 1913.

Smathers Sees Sweeping Demo Gains In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla.) claimed Sunday the Democrats will make sweeping gains in Senate races this year. But Sen. Irving Ives (R-NY) said it's too early for accurate election forecasts.

Smathers, who heads the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee said his party's chances have improved so much in the last few months he thinks Democrats may win from 12 to 14 Senate seats now held by the opposition.

Ives, who has announced he is retiring this year, said prospects looked dim for the Republicans in 1946 but they scored upsets in the voting.

The two senators aired their views in separate broadcasts.

Smathers conceded he was being very optimistic in saying that the Democrats might take 12 or 14 Republican seats. Democrats now outnumber Senate Republicans 49-47.

Attributing Democratic gains to "the general recession we are having," Smathers said the voters are unhappy because "there has been no leadership evidenced by this administration to pull the country out of the recession."

Ives said the critical question to be decided in November is "whether the Eisenhower administration must continue to function in a divided government for the next two years."

Ives chided the voters for failing to turn out in years when the presidential office is not at stake.

He also said it is time for politicians to "stop leaping to foregone conclusions about what the election results are going to be."

Smathers forecast Democratic victories in Senate races in Maine, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, California and for two seats in West Virginia. He did not explain where the possible 14th victory might come.

Scores Die In Two Days Of Bloodshed

Rebel Leader's Home Shelled By Security Forces

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Heavy fighting flared again Sunday in Beirut. Security forces shelled the home of rebel leader Seab Salam.

Shooting broke out at dawn in the Basta and Zariff districts, rebel-held Moslem quarters in the center of the capital.

Fighting was not as intense as in Saturday's day-long battle in which more than 50 persons were killed.

Heavy shooting subsided shortly after noon. From then until dark descended on the city there was only sporadic firing and bombing.

More people were killed and wounded in Sunday's flare-up. The number of casualties was unavailable. It was evident that the number will be large from the movement of ambulances in and out of the battle areas.

Rebel Offensive Halted
Security forces have stopped the rebel offensive and are keeping the insurgents pinned down inside their strongholds.

Security forces directed light artillery and mortar fire at the roof and top-floor apartments of Salam's three-story home. Salam told newsmen the top floor was a ruin.

Insurgents late Saturday night attacked the home of Prime Minister Sami Solh, also located in Basta, half a mile away. They sacked his house and set it afire, causing severe damage. The Prime Minister was not in the house at the time.

Americans May Depart
As the Lebanese crisis continued to worsen, the U.S. Embassy gave permission to American staff to send their dependents out of the country. The American government will pay the expenses. An embassy spokesman said departure would be voluntary and no one would be required to leave.

The embassy again advised the several thousand Americans living in Beirut to stay at home and keep off the streets. So far, no foreigners have encountered any serious dangers in the Beirut fighting. Most foreigners live in the Ras Beirut area, which is not near the battle zones.

Heavy shooting also was reported in Tripoli.

Dag Will Go To Lebanon
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld will go to Lebanon to attend the first formal meeting of the U.N. observation team in that country, it was announced Sunday night.

A spokesman said Hammarskjöld will leave New York for Beirut Tuesday night. The date for the meeting of the watchdog team has not yet been set.

The U.N. Security Council voted June 11 to send an observation group to revolt-torn Lebanon. It is charged with halting any flow of rebels or arms into the country.

20 Persons Hurt In Bus Accident
MARIETTA, Ga. (AP)—Twenty persons were injured Sunday when a Greyhound bus plunged down an embankment and overturned.

Six others aboard the Jacksonville, Fla., to Cincinnati bus escaped unhurt.

Police Sgt. Charles Cheshire quoted driver Floyd A. Jones, 46, of Ringgold, Ga., as saying he was going down a hill on four-lane U.S. 41 in heavy rain when he applied the brakes and the right wheel locked.

Jones said the bus spun around, went down an embankment and overturned on its side about 35 feet from the highway.

Two Die When Plane Crashes In Virginia
RICHLANDS, Va. (AP)—Two men were killed and a third person critically injured Sunday when a small private plane plunged to earth during a tornado-like storm in the Wards Valley section of Tazewell County.

Pulled from the wreckage was the body of Rufus Belcher, about 38, owner of the plane, from Grundy, Buchanan County. A passenger and brother of Belcher, Wallace Belcher, about 55, also of Grundy, was found alive by rescue workers but died later in a hospital here.

Surviving the crash was D. R. Belcher, about 30, a son of Wallace. He was reported in critical condition with multiple injuries in the Mattie Williams Hospital here.

Tito Denounces Soviet Premier, Applauds U. S.

50,000 Cheer Praise Of American Aid

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito accused Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev Sunday of insulting Yugoslavia and, to the cheers of a crowd of 50,000, praised the United States.

In an hour-long speech at the coal-mining town of Labin, Tito turned on Khrushchev for assailing Yugoslavia at the recent congress of the Bulgarian Communist party in Sofia.

Tito declared the renewed Soviet-bloc campaign against Yugoslavia's independent brand of communism had worsened Belgrade's relations with Russia, the Eastern Communist nations and Red China. And he promised to fight "to a victorious end."

"In attacking Yugoslavia," Tito said, "Comrade Khrushchev used words which have nothing in common with comradely criticism. He insulted not only the Yugoslav leadership but the Yugoslav people too."

Tito said Khrushchev blasted Yugoslavia for accepting U. S. aid

because it was not given to build socialism (communism).

"I agree that the Americans do not give us aid to build socialism," Tito said. "In 1920-21, when Americans aided Hungry Russia, they did not do it to help socialism either."

"After 1949 they helped us — not to aid us build socialism—but because hunger threatened here and in order to help us to protect our independence against Stalin."

Tito praised U. S. aid and added that, "There is no honest man in Yugoslavia who would disagree that this aid was useful." The crowd roared with applause.

Tito said American wheat, cotton, fats and other goods are needed by Yugoslavia.

"The American wheat is no worse than the Russian, which we do not receive," Tito remarked amid laughter.

He asked what right Khrushchev had to attack Yugoslavia for receiving U. S. credits, when the Soviets too are asking Washington for credits. This was a reference to Khrushchev's recent proposal to expand trade with the United States.

British Ask U. S. To Push Cyprus Plan

Eisenhower Urged To Use Influence With Turks, Greeks

3,000 Paratroops To Move In

Britain is flying 3,000 crack paratroops to Cyprus to head off violence by Greek and Turkish Cypriots when London announces its plans for the future of that British colony island this week.

There was a growing feeling in London toward internationalizing the dispute in the east Mediterranean island, a key base in the Western defense system.

Macmillan is determined to go ahead and present the British proposals before Parliament, possibly Tuesday in the face of likely rejection by Athens and Ankara.

The British plan — privately disclosed to Greece and Turkey a few days ago — is understood to offer Cypriots limited self-government immediately.

The youngster suffered second- and third-degree burns over 75 per cent of his body.

The pool, filled with boiling water, is one of several thousand throughout the park. Many of them are fenced or marked with warning signs. They vary in size from 12 feet across to 50 feet.

Priceless Raphael Painting Damaged By Hammer-Wielder

MILAN, Italy (AP)—An attack with a hammer slightly damaged a priceless painting of the Virgin Mary by Raphael Sunday in Milan's Brera Galleries.

A thud and crash of breaking glass alerted a gallery guard who hastened to the scene and grappled with the assailant, preventing him from inflicting further damage.

He had a paper-wrapped hammerhead in his hand. Later, identified as Nunzio Guglielmi, 34, of Messina, Sicily, he told police he had been motivated by a desire to "protest against art and society."

The only damage to the priceless Raphael was a slight scratch near the Virgin's knee. Gallery officials said it could be repaired easily.

The painting, entitled "Marriage of the Virgin," is generally considered to be one of the most important by the great Italian Renaissance artist. It is about 6X4 feet.

Gov. Harold W. Handley declared the emergency at the request of local officials, who were worried that an earthen levee protecting West Terre Haute might give way and let floodwaters loose on 40 per cent of the community. West Terre Haute has a population of 4,000.

Extra state police were rushed into the Terre Haute area, near the Indiana-Illinois border 90 miles southwest of Indianapolis. Sixty National Guard troops were called to duty and 40 prisoners from the nearby state penal farm were brought under guard to sandbag weak points on the levee.

The Wabash reached 27.6 feet at noon Sunday with a predicted crest at noon Monday of 28 feet. Flood level is 14 feet, and the forecast crest would be about three feet higher than the river reached in the 1950 flood. The record is 31.3 feet in 1913.

Scores Die In Two Days Of Bloodshed

Rebel Leader's Home Shelled By Security Forces

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Heavy fighting flared again Sunday in Beirut. Security forces shelled the home of rebel leader Seab Salam.

Shooting broke out at dawn in the Basta and Zariff districts, rebel-held Moslem quarters in the center of the capital.

Fighting was not as intense as in Saturday's day-long battle in which more than 50 persons were killed.

Heavy shooting subsided shortly after noon. From then until dark descended on the city there was only sporadic firing and bombing.

More people were killed and wounded in Sunday's flare-up. The number of casualties was unavailable. It was evident that the number will be large from the movement of ambulances in and out of the battle areas.

Rebel Offensive Halted

Security forces have stopped the rebel offensive and are keeping the insurgents pinned down inside their strongholds.

Security forces directed light artillery and mortar fire at the roof and top-floor apartments of Salam's three-story home, Salam told newsmen the top floor was a ruin.

Insurgents late Saturday night attacked the home of Prime Minister Sami Solh, also located in Basta, half a mile away. They sacked his house and set it afire, causing severe damage. The Prime Minister was not in the house at the time.

Americans May Depart

As the Lebanese crisis continued to worsen, the U. S. Embassy gave permission to American staff to send their dependents out of the country. The American government will pay the expenses. An embassy spokesman said departure would be voluntary and no one would be required to leave.

The embassy again advised the several thousand Americans living in Beirut to stay at home and keep off the streets. So far, no foreigners have encountered any serious dangers in the Beirut fighting. Most foreigners live in the Ras Beirut area, which is not near the battle zones.

Heavy shooting also was reported in Tripoli.

Dag Will Go To Lebanon

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld will go to Lebanon to attend the first formal meeting of the U. N. observation team in that country, it was announced Sunday night.

A spokesman said Hammarskjöld will leave New York for Beirut Tuesday night. The date for the meeting of the watchdog team has not yet been set.

The U. N. Security Council voted June 11 to send an observation group to revolt-torn Lebanon. It is charged with halting any flow of rebels or arms into the country.

20 Persons Hurt In Bus Accident

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP)—Twenty persons were injured Sunday when a Greyhound bus plunged down an embankment and overturned.

Six others aboard the Jacksonville, Fla., to Cincinnati bus escaped unhurt.

Police Sgt. Charles Cheshire quoted driver Floyd A. Jones, 46, of Ringgold, Ga., as saying he was going down a hill on four-lane U. S. 41 in heavy rain when he applied the brakes and the right wheel locked.

Jones said the bus spun around, went down an embankment and overturned on its side about 35 feet from the highway.

Two Die When Plane Crashes In Virginia

RICHLANDS, Va. (AP)—Two men were killed and a third person critically injured Sunday when a small private plane plunged to earth during a tornado-like storm in the Wards Valley section of Tazewell County.

Pulled from the wreckage was the body of Rufus Belcher, about 38, owner of the plane, from Grundy, Buchanan County. A passenger and brother of Belcher, Wallace Belcher, about 55, also of Grundy, was found alive by rescue workers but died later in a hospital here.

Surviving the crash was D. R. Belcher, about 30, a son of Wallace. He was reported in critical condition with multiple injuries in the Mattie Williams Hospital here.

De Gaulle May Fly To Algeria

PARIS (AP)—Informed sources said Sunday Premier de Gaulle will fly to Algeria within the next month to settle military questions.

This could mean firming up his authority over military leaders who have kept membership in the Algiers Committee of Public Safety or taking first-hand control over the battle against nationalist rebels or both.

Advices from Algeria said the understanding there would make the World War II hero would make the trip to take command of the 3½-year-old struggle to put down the nationalist uprising.

De Gaulle sent his newly appointed, Rene Brouillet, to that revolt-racked North African territory to take up his post as top aide to the supreme military and civilian commander, Gen. Raoul Salan.

The move came as Algeria's heaviest battle of June broke out 150 miles west of the capital. The French said 16 French soldiers were killed and 21 wounded. They listed rebel casualties as 40 killed and 23 captured.

Four bombs exploded in Constantine, in eastern Algeria, but no one was killed.

Rebel leaders are to meet with Tunisian and Moroccan chiefs in Tunis Monday for a strategy campaign. Tunisian sources were soft-pedaling the meeting, since simultaneous talks are going on with the French for withdrawal of French troops from scattered bases to the great port of Bizerte.

Showdown Battle

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Government forces have landed near Menado and have launched a two-pronged drive on that last rebel holdout city in North Celebes the army said Sunday.

The anti-government forces are expected to make a last-ditch stand in the volcano-framed city.

Al Williams, Aggressive Air Pioneer, Dies At 67

ELIZABETH CITY, N.C. (AP)—Maj. Alford (Al) Williams, 67, one of American aviation's most aggressive pioneers, died at a hospital here Sunday. He had been seriously ill a week after a period of declining health.

Williams bought a farm near here in 1940 and went into semi-retirement in 1949. He named the farm "Eyre-Eagle's Nest."

His work as a chief test pilot for the Navy won him a Distinguished Flying Cross in 1929. He was praised as one of the pioneers of high-speed flight in the accompanying citation.

Williams was born in New York City and graduated from Fordham University.

He enlisted in the Navy in World War I and resigned in 1930 with the rank of senior lieutenant. He joined the Marine Corps as a captain, resigning in 1940 with the rank of major.

He flew around the country in a single-seat fighter plane, the Gulfhawk, now enshrined in the Smithsonian Institution as "the plane that taught young America to fly."

He perfected the technique of inverted flying and conceived the dive-bombing technique during vertical speed trials 35 years ago.

He long championed the cause of a separate air force.

During his career he also graduated from Georgetown University with a bachelor of laws degree, was admitted to the New York State bar and became the first man to fly 300 miles an hour.

Unions' Batting Average In NLRB Elections Sags

WASHINGTON (AP) — Workers' Senate Rackets Committee's disclosures of corruption in some unions and other abuses.

The unions recognize the situation. They say they are studying new organizing techniques, biding their time, and will turn organizing forces out full blast again when they feel the time is ripe.

Unions have fared even worse through the years in the popular voting—the total number of "yes" and "no" votes cast in all bargaining elections. In 1937 about 87 per cent of workers voting marked "yes" votes for unions. Now the count has dropped to 58 per cent, a record low, and the rate is still pointing downward.

The NLRB's data show that the number of workers actually winding up with union bargaining rights reflects an even deeper decline.

In 1950 about 754,000 workers, or 95 per cent of those voting in NLRB elections, actually belonged to units winning bargaining rights. Currently the comparable figures are fewer than 200,000 workers per year, or about 53 per cent.

At Least Six Meet Violent Death In State

By The Associated Press

At least six persons met accidental death in Maryland during the weekend, including two drownings and another person believed to have drowned.

A retired Air Force officer, Brig. Gen. Charles Maylon, 63, of Washington, apparently drowned Sunday when he fell from his boat into the Patuxent River about two miles east of Oakville in St. Marys County.

His body was recovered 1½ hours after he fell into the water. Dr. J. Roy Guyther, deputy medical examiner, said that the general had had some heart trouble in the past but "from all indications it was drowning."

Also in Southern Maryland, a man was believed to have drowned Saturday while boating on the Potomac River.

State Trooper William Tall said Joseph M. Proctor, 22, Negro, of Bryans Road, Charles County was being watched by a man on shore when he and his boat suddenly disappeared. The accident happened about 1½ miles south of Proctor's hometown.

A three-car accident on the Baltimore - Washington Expressway killed one person and injured several others Sunday.

U. S. Park Police said 17-year-old Robert Day of Baltimore, passenger in one of the cars, was killed in the accident near Chevy Chase, about 100 yards south of the Maryland 202 intersection.

Pvt. L. E. Hill of the park police said a car driven by John W. Cox, 18, of Gambrills, Md., apparently was trying to race the one in which Day was riding.

Maine GOP Rivals Discuss Goldfine Gift

PORTLAND, Maine (AP)—Republican Sen. Frederick G. Payne, who says he once accepted one of Boston millionaire Bernard Goldfine's vicuna coats, is up for re-nomination in Monday's Maine primaries.

His opponent, Herman D. Shagan, remarked at a GOP rally in Farmington Saturday night that he "wears his own coat" — that neither he nor his clothing are bought by anyone.

Payne has said in Washington that he never was asked for favors by Goldfine, a long-time friend whose reported gifts to presidential assistant Sherman Adams have evoked a furor in the capital.

Keepers Halt Zoo Picketing To Feed Animals

NEW YORK (AP) — Striking keepers interrupted their picketing long enough Sunday to return to work and feed the Bronx Zoo's hungry animals.

The zoo is one of seven New York show places closed to the public since 700 custodial and maintenance employees walked out Saturday.

Thousands of sightseers had to look elsewhere for amusement because of the strike. It closed the Bronx Zoo, the Hayden Planetarium, the Aquarium at Coney Island, the Staten Island Zoo, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the American Museum of Natural History and the Brooklyn Museum.

The strikers, members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, arranged to keep emergency staffs on duty at the zoos and aquariums to look after the needs of the animals and fish.

Adlai London-Bound

CHICAGO (AP)—Adlai Stevenson left by plane Sunday for London, starting a European trip which will include a month-long visit to the Soviet Union.

Devereux said the convention and platform were planned by "engineers of evasion." He reserved special criticism for its planks on civil rights and oysters.

The Democratic platform proudly points to the fact that a Democrat controlled Congress enacted the first civil rights legislation in the last 80 years and a Democratic administration initiated racial integration in Baltimore City schools.

But, unlike the Republican platform, it does not spell out approval of integration in hotels, restaurants and other public places.

Also unlike the Republican document, the Democratic platform does not call for more leasing of barren oyster bottom to private interests for oyster farming. Instead, it proposes a study and creation of a new agency to rehabilitate and manage the slumping oyster industry.

Beall Says Poll Favors Passing Up Cut In Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. Glenn Beall said Sunday a poll he had taken indicated most Marylanders prefer to forego federal income tax reduction during economic recessions.

The Maryland Republican said 70 per cent of those answering a recent mail questionnaire were in favor of passing up the tax cut, 23 per cent wanted the reduction and seven per cent had no opinion on the subject.

Beall said the questionnaire was mailed to about 7,000 persons picked at random from a list of persons who have written to him over the years. About 1,500 replied.

These replies were listed for other questions:

Do you believe interservice rivalries are impeding our preparedness program: Yes 72 per cent, no 17 per cent, no opinion 11 per cent.

Baltimore Police Officials Convicted

BALTIMORE (AP) — Inspector Clarence O. Forrester and Captain Hyman Goldstein, the top-ranking members of the Baltimore Police Rackets Division, stood convicted Sunday of inducing two policemen to lie in a gambling trial.

The suspended police officials were convicted of subornation of perjury Saturday night by a jury which deliberated 4 hours, 2 minutes in Baltimore Criminal Court.

Judge Reuben Oppenheimer gave them until Monday to post bail of $2,000 each after postponing sentence pending a new trial move by defense counsel.

Forrester and Goldstein face a possible maximum penalty of 10 years in prison on the conviction. They still face trial on indictments charging them with setting up and maintaining a disorderly house for a convicted prostitute and with malfeasance in office.

The jurors' verdict — "guilty as charged" — came Saturday night at the conclusion of a week-long trial marked by conflicting testimony and three unsuccessful defense moves — two for a directed verdict of acquittal and one for a mistrial. Judge Oppenheimer denied all three.

Forrester and Goldstein were accused of getting two subordinates — Sgts. Herbert Meekins and Charles Richter of the Rackets Division — to commit perjury in court in an attempt to convict a defendant in a numbers-racket case.

State's Atty. J. Harold Grady told the jury the motive for the frameup the two officials were convicted of engineering was that Police Commissioner James M. Hepbron "had put the heat on the rackets division. He told them they had to produce."

Defense Attorney Emanuel H. Horn, representing Goldstein, argued that the two sergeants lied at the lottery trial because "they wanted to go to any lengths to get credit for this arrest," Horn said.

Neighbors and friends can't really judge whether a man is a good provider. They can see the house, the car, the gifts. But this is only half the picture.

The other half lies hidden. It may include such things as a deed, savings account books, life insurance. Things to help provide for the family's future.

The man who has the life insurance he needs passes one major test of a good provider. He knows he is meeting a vital responsibility to those who depend on him.

His wife knows it, too. And the bond between them is stronger for this knowledge that they alone possess.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
 ♠K 9 6 3 ♥AQJ 2 ♦AKJ 9 ♣10
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 diamond Pass 1 spade Pass
 What do you bid now?
 A.—Three hearts, a jump shift forcing to game, to be followed up by a raise in spades. An immediate raise to four spades does not do full justice to the holding. If partner has a hand of average strength, slam may be in the offing and the recommended sequence will serve to facilitate matters greatly.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
 ♠A 9 8 4 ♥A 7 5 3 ♦10 9 2 ♣K4
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 Pass Pass 2 diamonds Pass
 Pass Double Pass 2
 What do you bid now?
 A.—Pass. While it is true that the double of the three bid is intended primarily for take-out, nevertheless, you should play for penalties. In view of partner's pass, a game is not to be contemplated, but your defensive values are so sound that a one or two trick set is practically assured.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
 ♠♥Q5 ♦KQJ 6 4 3 ♣AK 10 6
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 diamond Pass 1 heart Pass
 2 clubs Pass 2 no trump Pass 2
 What do you bid now?
 A.—Four diamonds. Up to this point you have shown nothing above a minimum hand, and since partner has made distinct values, this is the time to make your bid display.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
 ♠AJ 5 ♥KJ 5 ♦AKJ 10 9 5 ♣8
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 diamond Pass 1 heart 1 spade 2
 What do you bid now?
 A.—Surely you should wish to commit this hand to game even if partner has a very weak take-out. The proper procedure, therefore, is a cue bid of two spades, showing first round control of that suit, and demanding a game. If partner has a good hand, this will facilitate the reaching of a slam.

 Q. 5—As South you hold:
 ♠A10 9 6 2 ♥KQ9 2 ♦7 4 ♣K10
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 club Pass 1 spade Pass 1 no trump Pass 2
 What do you bid now?
 A.—While you have ample values with which to jump to game in no trump, the suggested call is a jump shift to three hearts, forcing to game. It might well be that hearts will prove a superior contract if partner happens to have four of that suit. If not he will return either to spades or no trump.

Q. 6—Your partner has opened the bidding with two no trump and you hold:
 ♠A10 4 ♥8 6 2 ♦A 9 6 4 ♣10 8 3
 What is your response?
 A.—Three no trump. Even if partner has a maximum opening bid of two no trump, your partnership cannot have more than 32 points, and there is no hope for slam.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
 ♠AK ♥AK ♦KJ 8 6 5 2 ♣AK 2
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 2 diamonds Pass 2 no trump Pass 2
 What do you bid now?
 A.—Three diamonds. In case partner has some long suit, it is good policy to permit him to show it. Despite the great strength of this hand there are certain dangers in a three no trump contract, particularly if partner has reasonably long hearts or spades without any high cards. A game in a major suit might then be a better chance.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
 ♠AJ8 ♥AJ 10 8 6 3 ♦K6 ♣10 8
 The bidding has proceeded:
 South West North East
 1 heart Pass 2 hearts Pass 2
 What do you bid now?
 A.—Three hearts. While this hand is near minimum in high cards, it is distinctly above minimum in playing strength, and an effort should be made to reach game if partner has more than a minimum raise.

Let's Face The Facts

On every hand there is irresponsibility, Waste and Incompetency... your vote will help to determine how much further the city can go.

The Eves, Keegan and Buchholtz administration has among other things...

1. Highest City Taxes...

City property owners and renters pay the highest taxes in this state. Due to inefficient administration we receive less for our tax dollar than ever before. Look around you — the needs of the city are apparent and there is no money to correct this condition. Due to irresponsible and incompetent handling of the city income, our only opportunity to correct the present trend is for you to cast your vote in protest.

2. Bargained Away City Police Power

The Eves, Keegan and Buchholtz administration has signed a contract with the State Roads Commission transferring the city's police powers to regulate traffic on Bedford, Frederick, South Centre, South Mechanic, Harrison, Williams, Commerce, Maryland Avenue and Wineow Streets, leaving these residents and citizens who use the streets without ANY chance to get relief which would correct any hardships imposed.

3. Destroyed Public Confidence...

The entire city recreation board, which was composed of public spirited and capable citizens, unanimously resigned in protest to misguided interference from the administration. In the meantime, the administration had found itself unable to form a new board which is vital for the welfare of our youth.

This is just one example of the lack of public confidence in the Eves, Keegan and Buchholtz administration.

To correct these conditions new faces, with the exception of John J. Long, are necessary in our City Hall!

The Committee For Better City Government believes that, after reviewing the facts, you will want to —

The Good News In Business

Month after month since last fall business news failed to shake the Administration's confidence that all fundamentally was well. It now appears that good news of dawning recovery may make no greater impression on the Administration's critics.

The good news most recently is that the rate of unemployment declined from mid-April to mid-May, the first such decline since last July. Unemployment fell and employment rose more than seasonally.

This hopeful turn, moreover, is reinforced by other encouraging statistics: Carloadings are showing slight increases; steel production has risen for the past six weeks, though production remains at only about 60 per cent of capacity; new car sales are gaining slightly; business failures are down; farmers are doing better than they have for years.

It is possible to argue that since the bad news concerns the basic weaknesses underlying the recession, chiefly the overproduction or underconsumption of durable goods, the good news really means very little. Yet that argument seems to take a stubbornly narrow view of the economy and the path it must take to recovery.

The mixture of strengths and weaknesses is in itself a good sign, indicating a more stable economy than the nation has ever had before. If recession is regarded as an agony of readjustment, then signs of recovery outside the major depressed industries (and temporarily independent of them) could signal a readjustment actually taking place.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky Lawyers' Clinics

Physicians and surgeons learn their business not only at college but also in clinics and as assistants to older men. It used to be that most journalists started as printers' devils or office boys or copy boys and then worked their way up through various grades and experiences until, in their middle years, when they knew something and could restrain their fingers, they got a responsible position. Lawyers used to read law in the offices of their elders and learned the law business by practice and experience as well as by reading the books. That is before the case system was discovered.

Along comes Judge Robert S. Marx, Professor of Law in the University of Cincinnati, and asks some questions about this training. He says:

"... the practical aspect of the problem confronting the law student is that it will be several years after graduation before he will be called upon to argue cases in an appellate court. His first experiences will be in the trial court. Here the law is usually reasonably clear and well settled. On the other hand, the facts in the trial court are not agreed or assumed but are always in controversy. Here, the success or failure of the young lawyer depends upon the care and diligence with which he has gathered and assembled the facts and the evidence and his skill in presenting these at the trial. Unfortunately, the majority of our law schools have done little to give a realistic education to the young lawyer in this all important field of getting the facts, marshalling the evidence, and trying the case to a court or jury. Most law students graduate without having had any practical legal experience in the laboratories of the law similar to the experience which medical students receive in medical laboratories and hospitals."

This is very true. Fact-gathering and fact-finding are difficult ordeals. Facts are elusive. For instance, I know of a person whose statement of facts I occasionally have to check. Whereas there is always a basis for what he says, nothing is precisely so.

Most often he reports plausible rumors. Sometimes, he becomes conscious of his lack of precise data and feeling obliged always to say something when called upon, he employs ingenuity. But ingenuity does not establish a fact.

The middle of the 19th Century was characterized by a compulsive search for facts. As a result there was a vast accumulation of detailed knowledge in every field, which scientists, particularly the Germans, classified and catalogued and indexed. The philosophers revolted against mere discovery and cataloguing and devoted themselves to systematizing knowledge into thought. This battle between the labellers and the thinkers has continued to this day in learned circles. But by now, there are so many precise facts to know that college entrance examinations are given in the form of questions that can be answered by underlining words and filling in blocks, and the papers can be marked by an IBM machine. Thinking therefore is unnecessary. In fact, guessing can be a surer guide to success even than memory. It is like roulette and the player's luck is a factor.

Judge Samuel Leibowitz of Brooklyn said on this subject:

"There are six famous law schools in New York City, all of them a short distance from the largest court system in the world, federal, state and municipal. Do any of the Professors take their students to these courtrooms—laboratories where the abstract principles of law they teach ... are applied in actual 'live' cases ..."

Judge Marx defines his terms accurately and precisely:

"... By a course on Facts I do not mean a course on evidence. Evidence deals with what is admissible or competent or relevant. A course on Facts deals with the truth regardless of the rules of evidence, and the truth does not vary, whether the case is civil or criminal or is based on law or equity ..."

It is amazing how many successful men fear facts. For instance, Cyrus Eaton is pacifistic. He fails to grasp the meaning of Soviet imperialism. All that he knows is that war is evil. He underwrites peace but not freedom.

On the other hand, if he were capable of understanding the sinister nature of the Soviet Universal State, he would devote himself to the policies of Secretary of State Dulles rather than to those of Nikita Khrushchev.

Now — The Big Climb

French Army's Alienation From Civil Authority

ALGIERS

Until you have lived a little in this fantastic Algerian atmosphere, events here tend to appear either incomprehensible or downright incredible. So perhaps it is more useful to try to convey the atmosphere than to analyze the individual events.

What, then, makes the atmosphere so fantastic? For one thing, of course, Algeria has been at war for more than three years. All wars have a way of heightening experience — even experience far from the front line—so that even the diners on the peaceful, lamplit terrace of the Hotel Saint George have a little the air of dancing at the Duchess of Richmond's famous ball before Waterloo.

The civilians, God knows, are far safer than they would be in any automobile on any major highway. But the scene acquires its own inevitable drama because one sees the young officers who are also enjoying their meals in the bright evening air, and one knows they will be off on operations tomorrow and dead the next day.

To this natural drama has now been added a political drama of surpassing fascination. And the essence of the drama is an immense moral choice by the professional officers of the French Army.

Other, more sordid actors also throng the stage. There are the Algerians of French extraction, of course, who have great interests at stake. Much more important, there are also the group of men from metropolitan France who have claimed the leadership of what they call "the Algerian revolution."

This second group, headed and wholly controlled by the dark, saturnine Jacques Soustelle, has experienced a most bitter disappointment. They clearly thought they would be called to leading posts in the new government of Gen. de Gaulle. They now know that they can hope for nothing of this sort.

Before de Gaulle was legally voted into power, these same men were orchestrating the shouts of the mob, "The paratroopers to Paris!" The paratroopers were then ready to obey the call and they could then have taken Paris with ease. How tempting, therefore, for this same little group to try to set the stage for a renewal of the former outcry! How they must long to fly to Paris with the paratroopers, now chanting a pious new slogan, "We must rescue de Gaulle!"

But the complex interplay of civilian interests and civilian ambitions sinks into insignificance beside the ferment in the French Army. If the Army does not march with the civilians, the latter will shortly cease to have very much importance. But what will be the Army's choice?

Ten years of unceasing, bitter, fruitless war have made the most of these French professional Army officers a new breed of men, quite different from any one has seen. Consider, for example, the following footnote to the famous "affair of the tortures."

The use of a grim third degree was unavoidably necessary to extirpate terror in Algiers. Gen. Massu, in whose hands the decision lay, is a deeply religious man, who suffered a severe crisis of conscience before issuing the necessary order. In the end, he gave the order. But first he himself submitted to the tortures that he ordered, and he further commanded all other officers involved in the matter to do as he did, so that they might say they had inflicted no suffering on others that they had not borne themselves.

The hardness, the moral doubts and the strong sense of personal style that are implied by this story make an explosive combination. The Israeli Army is where such men belong, for in a nation besieged they would have no moral doubts. But in the French Army, these men have become totally alienated from the bustling, prosperous, vigorously bourgeois France of today. And for that very reason, they are all the more imbued with a passionate patriotic longing for a France with great aims and a great but ill-defined faith.

In their alienation, they cannot see that a France which is neither besieged nor drunk with conquest cannot possibly live its life on the intense level they demand. Below this level of intensity of life, they think, both men and nations become mere cabbages.

And with no experience of political processes, they can only dimly perceive that artificial efforts to achieve this intensity of living can easily and rapidly lead to the Fascism so many of them fought in the resistance years.

Add that their own experiences have quite naturally filled them with a loathing of the parliamentary weaknesses of the Fourth Republic. Add further that they have an almost religious faith in the unqualified integration of Algeria into France and an enormous effort to make "complete Frenchmen" of Algeria's wretched Muslim masses.

Add finally that they have begun quite rightly to doubt whether Gen. de Gaulle is really willing to take the whole enormous step that they desire, precisely because the vast majority of Frenchmen of France do not desire it.

One can then understand the inner ferment that caused the officer members of the Committee of Public Safety to sign the insubordinate manifesto that the Algerian Committee of Public Safety addressed to Gen. de Gaulle. A high authority has said this was mere "spume on a great wave of change." But it is not spume. It is a symptom, rather, of a choice in the making. For what that may be worth, this reporter remains convinced that the men of the French Army will finally make the right choice, to return to the discipline proper in the army of a great country. But it has to be added that the final outcome is not certain yet.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

European turmoil renews itself like a weed from its own seeds.

Some time ago a fellow squawked that Russia had annexed four million Poles, confiscated Finland, chewed up Moldavia, sloped over into Persia, inched up from Nieman into the heart of Germany and left Austria and Prussia with no more boundaries than spilled gelatine.

Sounds like Umbrella Mike Chamberlain at Munich, doesn't it?

Instead of Umbrella Mike it was Fancy Dan Castlereagh who primed this classical complaint blank. He packed history's complaint blank almost a century before Chamberlain.

Protecting Your Baby From Polio Infection

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

There has been an 85 per cent reduction in paralytic polio during the last two years. Physicians and health authorities have their fingers crossed because a serious outbreak could occur among the 48.5 million in the susceptible age bracket who have not received the Salk vaccine. In this group, 19 million are under age 20.

The polio vaccine is holding its own and studies have demonstrated that three injections afford protection for several years. Two children who were vaccinated in 1953 by Dr. Salk are still immune to the disease.

The potency of the polio vaccine is measured by testing the concentration (titer) of protective antibodies in the blood. They appear in the blood stream shortly after the initial dose and increase in number after the next two shots. Thereafter, the antibodies decline from a maximum to a level that still is effective against the disease.

This type of protection parallels that noted among victims of polio who recover and are considered immune. All of this should be good news to those who have had three injections of the vaccine.

A booster, or fourth injection, will do no harm but is unnecessary, especially in the 90 per cent who received vaccine of normal strength. There is no need for the remaining 10 per cent to be alarmed because we know that a poor vaccine is better than none.

Polio is unusual during the first year of life but is tragic when it occurs. For this reason pediatricians recommend that the shots be added to the baby's immunizing schedule. The first injection of polio vaccine will be given at two months along with immunization against diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), and tetanus. A ditions has already come true. He hasn't made any money!

Interesting definition of a high-brow by the late whodunit concocter, Edgar Wallace: "A high-brow is a man who has found something more interesting than women."

Gross notes sadly that one of the genuine witch doctor's prescriptions has already come true. He hasn't made any money!

Embarrassing Link With Goldfine May Cause Adams To Resign Post

By Drew Pearson

they remember the sanctimonious criticism of the Democrats by Adams himself.

When Sam Faber of the Faber tailoring firm in Boston was asked by this column how much money Goldfine had paid for Adams' clothes, he replied: "It's a very delicate matter. I can't discuss it."

Mrs. Adams' Clothes

There is also evidence that Goldfine paid for some of Mrs. Sherman Adams' clothing at Jordan-Marsh, Boston's most exclusive store. On some occasions Goldfine and Sherman Adams came along on these shopping trips.

There is also evidence that Adams intervened at the Federal Trade Commission where Goldfine faced a criminal case. It was dropped. The National Association of Wool Manufacturers also has informed its members that Adams got in touch with the Tariff Commission with a view to getting more tariff protection against foreign imports. Members of the association say that it was the same Berny Goldfine, one of the biggest woolen manufacturers in New England, who got Adams to intervene.

This, of course, was in direct contradiction to the President's strong policy of low-tariff reciprocal trade, which Democrats renewed for another five years last week.

All this follows so much Republican castigation of Democrats that it's believed Eisenhower cannot let Adams remain. It was in Des Moines, Sept. 19, 1952, that the presidential candidate promised: "When it comes to casting out the crooks and their cronies, I can promise you that we won't wait for Congressional prodding and investigation. The prodding, this time, will start from the top."

Two White House Aides

Significantly, Adams' close relationship with Berny Goldfine broke just before Matt Connelly, who occupied the same White House position in the Truman administration, will go to jail for accepting one overcoat and two suits of clothes from Irving Sachs, operator of Shu-Styles in St. Louis. A criminal tax case against Sachs was also involved. Connelly's crime was to phone Lamar Caudle at the Justice Department.

Caudle sent Sachs before U. S. District Judge Roy Harder, who fined him, but, because he was an epileptic, did not sentence him to jail. For this Caudle and Connelly were prosecuted with dogged relentlessness by the Eisenhower administration and finally convicted of "depriving the United States of their best services." The Justice Department did not charge that they received monetary reward.

In the Goldfine case, he too faced a criminal charge—before the Federal Trade Commission. Adams, like Connelly, put in some phone calls in his behalf. The case against Connelly's friend, Sachs, was not dropped. He pled guilty in Federal court and was fined. Connelly got two suits of clothes and topcoat from Sachs. Adams got $2,000 in free hotels in Boston plus $1,300 in free hotels in Plymouth, plus a vicuna coat, plus various other clothes from Goldfine.

Connelly and Caudle go to jail one week hence, June 22, which is Caudle's birthday.

Adams-Go-Round

The alibi put forward by Roger Robb, counsel for Goldfine (actually Adams' counsel) is that the two are friends of many years standing. Significantly, this is the same alibi made by the latest administration conflict-of-interest case, ex-FCC Commissioner Richard Mack, also defended by Robb. Because Mack was an old friend of Thurman Whiteside, the Miami attorney, he felt it was all right to borrow money from him. Mack got fired from the FCC. It is illegal for a government official to take money from a party who has a case before him, and Mack has been summoned before a grand jury. This writer has predicted he will not be indicted. Neither will Sherman Adams. They didn't work for Harry Truman. Not many Washington tears are being shed for the predicament of Sherman Adams, even in Republican circles. He's been too sanctimonious. The two New Hampshire Senators, Bridges and Cotton, have never liked him, though both have received favors from Goldfine. According to one New Hampshire, "Bridges views Adams' predicament like that of your mother-in-law going over a cliff in your new Cadillac." ... Members of the Harris committee had mixed feelings about the Adams-Goldfine probe. Berny Schwartz, the counsel who was fired for suggesting earlier that Adams, Mack, et al were involved in possible conflicts of interest, had wanted to send probers to Boston a long time ago, but was stopped. When Congressman John Bell Williams of Mississippi finally took a subcommittee to Boston last week, the Herald Traveler published a charge that he was guilty of "Bilboism." This made Williams see red. It will now be difficult to stop him.

A little place at the shore ...

It was unpopular all winter. Friends shuddered when I asked them to drop in. Some wanted to send hot soup and life rafts. "The shore?" they said. "You live at the shore in the winter?" I broke down and said yes. Only my father and my friend Chief were brave enough to come down to see me when the three-day Northeasters were blowing the sea gulfs backward.

Only they saw the bungalow-sized chunks of pale green ice glittering in the yellow sun as they drifted by the back door in the Shrewsbury River. Sometimes, when the big winds came and the tall white feathers of spume broke over the seawall, it seemed that half the village was ready to run for the safety of the Molly Pitcher Hotel, in Red Bank.

Now, the little place is popular. I'm popular, Gayle is popular. Our dog Rocky feels his head being cultivated by strange hands. People smile at our housekeeper and slip her a couple of dollars. The sun is hot and friendly. The river is spangled with a million sapphires. Beyond the front lawn, the Atlantic Ocean builds up slowly in high green combers and then curls in thunder on the sand. Everybody likes us. Relatives write notes that they are coming down "for a few days." Friends phone that they will be here tomorrow if you're "not too busy." Strangers walk in with a hearty: "I'm a reader of your column and I've got the wife and kids out in the car. They'd like to say hello."

Strange children climb over the boat at the dock and they press buttons and try the ship-to-shore phone and pull on ropes and try the searchlight at high noon. Our housekeeper sits at the kitchen table adding and when I ask her about the problem she says: "This grocery bill is for $456 and there is only you and Gayle and me. It don't seem right."

It is right. I forgot to tell her that my family is known from coast-to-coast as The Locusts and they will eat anything that doesn't eat them first. My brother-in-law Emil Steenken is our hero. He is the only one who opens a light breakfast with six eggs and a half loaf of toast. "It's the sea air," my sister says. My father only nibbles at food now, but there was a time when he weighed 254 pounds, finished an eight-course dinner, and said: "Okay. Start with the soup again."

My brother John eats very little at home, but when he leaves his post at Christ Hospital to come here, he chews the hinges off the refrigerator. Gayle Peggy eats too fast. I told her so. She pouted and looked at her cousins and uncles. "I only do it in self-defense," she said. The dog slinks around with his ears and tail down whenever he sees my friends. He knows he will not get the leavings because there are no leavings.

Chief and I eat at all hours. We eat everything. At 11 p. m. we are on the front porch and one of us goes looking for wedges of cheddar cheese and saltines and ham. We have been known to grab an old leg of lamb bone or a lost coin for it. The percolator is going at all hours, and a kettle simmers for tea from morning until night. The housekeeper is tired, not from cooking but from carrying the food up from the freezer.

The bar gets a workout. Friends who brag that they haven't been loaded since the days of the Blue Eagle come down and belt the scotch, the Irish Mist, the Thunderbird, the brandy and, in an hour, they are bobbing on the shore like smelly corks. Sooner or later, they get around to the same speech: "You wanna write a book? A real book? I got a book in me and I'll tell it to you and you can give me half."

Those who do not drink sit and look at the furnishings, giving all of it a careful critical eye. They want to know where this painting or that one came from, and how much it cost and they think it needs a woman's touch and do I think I'll get married soon.

Lately, when we see a cavalcade of cars turning into the driveway, Gayle and I hop aboard the Away We Go II and cast off for the Atlantic Highlands Yacht Club. It is 30 minutes away and it is a friendly place of good food and a huge anchorage and the hills look like a loin of pork in mint. The food is good; the evenings are restful.

The Good News In Business

Month after month since last fall business news failed to shake the Administration's confidence that all fundamentally was well. It now appears that good news of dawning recovery may make no greater impression on the Administration's critics.

The good news most recently is that the rate of unemployment declined from mid-April to mid-May, the first such decline since last July. Unemployment fell and employment rose more than seasonally.

This hopeful turn, moreover, is reinforced by other encouraging statistics: Carloadings are showing slight increases; steel production has risen for the past six weeks, though production remains at only about 60 per cent of capacity; new car sales are gaining slightly; business failures are down; farmers are doing better than they have for years.

It is possible to argue that since the bad news concerns the basic weaknesses underlying the recession, chiefly the overproduction or underconsumption of durable goods, the good news really means very little. Yet that argument seems to take a stubbornly narrow view of the economy and the path it must take to recovery.

The mixture of strengths and weaknesses is in itself a good sign, indicating a more stable economy than the nation has ever had before. If recession is regarded as an agony of readjustment, then signs of recovery outside the major depressed industries (and temporarily independent of them) could signal a readjustment actually taking place.

Lawyers' Clinics

Physicians and surgeons learn their business not only at college but also in clinics and as assistants to older men. It used to be that most journalists started as printers' devils or office boys or copy boys and then worked their way up through various grades and experiences until, in their middle years, when they knew something and could restrain their fingers, they got a responsible position. Lawyers used to read law in the offices of their elders and learned the law by business by practice and experience as well as by reading the books. That is before the case system was discovered.

Along comes Judge Robert S. Marx, Professor of Law in the University of Cincinnati, and asks some questions about this training. He says:

"... the practical aspect of the problem confronting the law student is that it will be several years after graduation before he will be called upon to argue cases in an appellate court. His first experiences will be in the trial court. Here the law is usually reasonably clear and well settled. On the other hand, the facts in the trial court are not agreed or assumed but are always in controversy. Here, the success or failure of the young lawyer depends upon the care and diligence with which he has gathered and assembled the facts and the evidence and his skill in presenting these at the trial. Unfortunately, the majority of our law schools have done little to give a realistic education to the young lawyer in this all important field of getting the facts, marshalling the evidence, and trying the case to a court or jury. Most law students graduate without having had any practical legal experience in the laboratories of the law similar to the experience which medical students receive in medical laboratories and hospitals."

This is very true. Fact-gathering and fact-finding are difficult ordeals. Facts are elusive. For instance, I know of a person whose statement of facts I occasionally have to check. Whereas there is always a basis for what he says, nothing is precisely so.

Most often he reports plausible rumors. Sometimes, he becomes conscious of his lack of precise data and feeling obliged always to say something when called upon, he employs ingenuity. But ingenuity does not establish a fact.

The middle of the 19th Century was characterized by a compulsive search for facts. As a result there was a vast accumulation of detailed knowledge in every field, which scientists, particularly the Germans, classified and catalogued and indexed. The philosophers revolted against mere discovery and cataloguing and devoted themselves to systematizing knowledge into thought. This battle between the labellers and the thinkers has continued to this day in learned circles. But by now, there are so many precise facts to know that college entrance examinations are given in the form of questions that can be answered by underlining words and filling in blocks, and the papers can be marked by an IBM machine. Thinking therefore is unnecessary. In fact, guessing can be a surer guide to success even than memory. It is like roulette and the player's luck is a factor.

Judge Samuel Leibowitz of Brooklyn said on this subject:

"There are six famous law schools in New York City, all of them a short distance from the largest court system in the world, federal, state and municipal. Do any of the Professors take their students to these courtrooms—laboratories where the abstract principles of law they teach . . . are applied in actual 'live' cases . . ."

Judge Marx defines his terms accurately and precisely:

"... By a course on Facts I do not mean a course on evidence. Evidence deals with what is admissible or competent or relevant. A course on Facts deals with the truth regardless of the rules of evidence, and the truth does not vary, whether the case is civil or criminal or is based on law or equity . . ."

It is amazing how many successful men fear facts. For instance, Cyrus Eaton is pacifistic. He fails to grasp the meaning of Soviet imperialism. All that he knows is that war is evil. He underwrites peace but not freedom.

On the other hand, if he were capable of understanding the sinister nature of the Soviet Universal State, he would devote himself to the policies of Secretary of State Dulles rather than to those of Nikita Khrushchev.

Now — The Big Climb

French Army's Alienation From Civil Authority

By Joseph Alsop

ALGIERS

Until you have lived a little in this fantastic Algerian atmosphere, events here tend to appear either incomprehensible or downright incredible. So perhaps it is more useful to try to convey the atmosphere than to analyze the individual events.

What, then, makes the atmosphere so fantastic? For one thing, of course, Algeria has been at war for more than three years. All wars have a way of heightening experience — even experience far from the front line—so that even the diners on the peaceful, lamplit terrace of the Hotel Saint George have a little the air of dancing at the Duchess of Richmond's famous ball before Waterloo.

The civilians, God knows, are far safer than they would be in any automobile on any major highway. But the scene acquires its own inevitable drama because one sees the young officers who are also enjoying their meals in the bright evening air, and one knows they will be off on operations tomorrow and dead the next day.

To this natural drama has now been added a political drama of surpassing fascination. And the essence of the drama is an immense moral choice by the professional officers of the French Army.

Other, more sordid actors also throng the stage. There are the Algerians of French extraction, of course, who have great interests at stake. Much more important, there are also the group of men from metropolitan France who have claimed the leadership of what they call "the Algerian revolution."

This second group, headed and wholly controlled by the dark, saturnine Jacques Soustelle, has experienced a most bitter disappointment. They clearly thought they would be called to leading posts in the new government of Gen. de Gaulle. They now know that they can hope for nothing of this sort.

Before de Gaulle was legally voted into power, these same

men were orchestrating the shouts of the mob, "The paratroopers to Paris!" The paratroopers were then ready to obey the call and they could then have taken Paris with ease. How tempting, therefore, for this same little group to try to set the stage for a renewal of the former outcry! How they must long to fly to Paris with the paratroopers, now chanting a pious new slogan, "We must rescue de Gaulle!"

But the complex interplay of civilian interests and civilian ambitions sinks into insignificance beside the ferment in the French Army. If the Army does not march with the civilians, the latter will shortly cease to have very much importance. But what will be the Army's choice?

Ten years of unceasing, bitter, fruitless war have made the most of these French professional Army officers a new breed of men, quite different from any one has seen. Consider, for example, the following footnote to the famous "affair of the tortures."

The use of a grim third degree was unavoidably necessary to extirpate terror in Algiers. Gen. Massu, in whose hands the decision lay, is a deeply religious man, who suffered a severe crisis of conscience before issuing the necessary order. In the end, he gave the order. But first he himself submitted to the tortures that he ordered, and he further commanded all other officers involved in the matter to do as he did, so that they might say they had inflicted no suffering on others that they had not borne themselves.

The hardness, the moral doubts and the strong sense of personal style that are implied by this story make an explosive combination. The Israeli Army is where such men belong, for in a nation besieged they would have no moral doubts. But in the French Army, these men have become totally alienated from European turmoil renews itself like a weed from its own seeds.

Some time ago a fellow squawked that Russia had annexed four million Poles, confiscated Finland, chewed up Moldavia, sloped over into Persia, inched up from Nieman into the heart of Germany and left Austria and Prussia with no more boundaries than spilled gelatine.

Sounds like Umbrella Mike Chamberlain at Munich, doesn't it?

Instead of Umbrella Mike it was Fancy Dan Castlereagh who primed this classical complaint blank. He packed history's complaint blank almost a century before Chamberlain.

The year was 1864 and the essence of his beef was the Congress of Vienna in 1814. It gave the Tsar a better toe-hold than a six-legged sloth in an unfinished attic.

Proving the more it changes the more it is the same. And you should count it twice before leaving the cashier's window.

Castlereagh gumbled the same old rubber stamp diplomats have nursed on for centuries. Poland at the same time was the Duchy of Warsaw and this was the Third Partition.

Catherine the Great started it when she gave the golden throne of Poland to one of her flickering flames. Then she took it back and made it into a potty chair.

Embarrassing Link With Goldfine May Cause Adams To Resign Post

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The betting odds in Washington are that Sherman Adams, for five years guardian of the presidential gate, correlator of White House decisions, the man who requires Cabinet members to check with him as to what they have discussed with the President, will have to retire as "assistant president."

The secret evidence piled up in the House Legislative Oversight Committee is too embarrassing.

It includes the fact that Bernard Goldfine paid other hotel bills for Sherman Adams. The $2,000 tab he picked up at the Sheraton-Plaza in Boston was just one case. There is also the case of a $1,300 hotel bill paid for the assistant president at Plymouth, Mass.

Then there is the case of Adams' clothes. Committee probers have checked with the tailor who fits both Goldfine, the millionaire textile manufacturer, and Adams, the immaculate presidential assistant. It develops that Goldfine paid for most of Adams' clothes.

He even presented Adams with a vicuna coat.

This has caused Democrats to see shades of the Truman mink coat era. They remember the "cloth Republican coat" speech of Vice President Nixon when he was defending his $18,000 personal expense fund and threw mink coats at the Democrats. They remember Ike's "clean as a hound's tooth" speech. And they remember the sanctimonious criticism of the Democrats by Adams himself.

When Sam Faber of the Faber tailoring firm in Boston was asked by this column how much money Goldfine had paid for Adams' clothes, he replied: "It's a very delicate matter. I can't discuss it."

Mrs. Adams' Clothes

There is also evidence that Goldfine paid for some of Mrs. Sherman Adams' clothing at Jordan-Marsh, Boston's most exclusive store. On some occasions Goldfine and Sherman Adams came along on these shopping trips.

There is also evidence that Adams intervened at the Federal Trade Commission where Goldfine faced a criminal case. It was dropped. The National Association of Wool Manufacturers also has informed its members that Adams got in touch with the Tariff Commission with a view to getting more tariff protection against foreign imports. Members of the association say that it was the same Berny Goldfine, one of the biggest woolen manufacturers in New England, who got Adams to intervene.

This, of course, was in direct contradiction to the President's strong policy of low-tariff reciprocal trade, which Democrats renewed for another five years last week.

All this follows so much Republican castigation of Democrats that it's believed Eisenhower cannot let Adams remain. It was in Des Moines, Sept. 19, 1952, that the presidential candidate promised: "When it comes to casting out the crooks and their cronies, I can promise you that we won't wait for Congressional prodding and investigation. The prodding, this time, will start from the top."

Two White House Aides

Significantly, Adams' close relationship with Berny Goldfine broke just before Matt Connelly, who occupied the same White House position in the Truman administration, will go to jail for accepting one overcoat and two suits of clothes from Irving Sachs, operator of Shu-Styles in St. Louis. A criminal tax case against Sachs was also involved. Connelly's crime was to phone Lamar Caudle at the Justice Department.

Caudle sent Sachs before U. S. District Judge Roy Harder, who fined him, but, because he was an epileptic, did not sentence him to jail. For this Caudle and Connelly were prosecuted with dogged relentlessness by the Eisenhower administration and finally convicted of "depriving the United States of there best services." The Justice Department did not charge that they received monetary reward.

In the Goldfine case, he too faced a criminal charge—before the Federal Trade Commission. Adams, like Connelly, put in some phone calls in his behalf. The case against him was dropped. The case against Connelly's friend, Sachs, was not dropped. He pled guilty in Federal court and was fined. Connelly got two suits of clothes and topcoat from Sachs. Adams got $2,000 in free hotels in Boston plus $1,300 in free hotels in Plymouth, plus a vicuna coat, plus various other clothes from Goldfine.

Connelly and Caudle go to jail one week hence, June 22, which is Caudle's birthday.

Adams-Go-Round

The alibi put forward by Roger Robb, counsel for Goldfine (actually Adams' counsel) is that the two are friends of many years standing. Significantly, this is the same alibi made by the latest administration conflict-of-interest case, ex-FCC Commissioner Richard Mack, also defended by Robb. Because Mack was an old friend of Thurman Whiteside, the Miami attorney, he felt it was all right to borrow money from him. . . . Mack got fired from the FCC. It is illegal for a government official to take money from a party who has a case before him, and Mack has been summoned before a grand jury. This writer has predicted he will not be indicted. Neither will Sherman Adams. They didn't work for Harry Truman. Not many Washington tears are being shed for the predicament of Sherman Adams, even in Republican circles. He's been too sanctimonious. The two New Hampshire Senators, Bridges and Cotton, have never liked him, though both have received favors from Goldfine. According to one New Hampshire, "Bridges views Adams' predicament like that of your mother-in-law going over a cliff in your new Cadillac." . . . Members of the Harris committee had mixed feelings about the Adams-Goldfine probe. Berny Schwartz, the counsel who was fired for suggesting earlier that Adams, Mack, et al were involved in possible conflicts of interest, had wanted to send probers to Boston a long time ago, but was stopped. When Congressman John Bell Williams of Mississippi finally took a subcommittee to Boston last week, the Herald Traveler published a charge that he was guilty of "Bibloism." This made Williams see red. It will now be difficult to stop him.

TV critics who dare to criticize great men like Liberace or Elvis Presley must be ready for an avalanche of denunciations by outraged fans. Now Ben Gross, for example, took a sly dig at Elvis and got this in the mail: "I am a genuine witch doctor and voodoo man, practiced in all mystic rites and incantations. Be on notice that I have put a fatal curse on you and all other detractors of Elvis, the incarnation of the ancient god of love. I have stuck pins into a wax image of your hideous figure and you will not only die like a dog, with your eyes popping from their sockets, but you will never make any money."

Gross notes sadly that one of the genuine witch doctor's pre-

children who were vaccinated in 1953 by Dr. Salk are still immune to the disease.

The potency of the polio vaccine is measured by testing the concentration (titer) of protective antibodies in the blood. They appear in the blood stream shortly after the initial dose and increase in number after the next two shots. Thereafter, the antibodies decline from a maximum to a level that still is effective against the disease.

This type of protection parallels that noted among victims of polio who recover and are considered immune. All of this should be good news to those who have had three injections of the vaccine.

A booster, or fourth injection, will do no harm but is unnecessary, especially in the 90 per cent who received vaccine of normal strength. There is no need for the remaining 10 per cent to be alarmed because we know that a poor vaccine is better than none.

Polio is unusual during the first year of life but is tragic when it occurs. For this reason pediatricians recommend that the shots be added to the baby's immunizing schedule. ## Tigers Send Boone, Shaw To Pale Hose

Bengals Receive Tito Francona, Bill Fischer

NEW YORK (AP)—Detroit Tigers Sunday traded infielder Ray Boone and right-hander Bob Shaw to Chicago for outfielder Tito Francona and pitcher Bill Fischer.

Detroit General Manager John McHale announced the trade between games in Sunday's double header here.

Boone, 34, has appeared in 39 games this year and is batting .237. He has six home runs and 20 runs batted in. Francona, batting .258 in 41 games, has only one home run with 10 RBIs. The 24-year-old lefthanded batter, was acquired last winter from Baltimore in a deal which also brought Billy Goodman and Ray Moore for Larry Doby, and Jack Harshman, Jim Marshall and Russ Hemans.

Refused To Report

Fischer, 27, has a 2-3 record, pitching mostly in relief. He started three games and failed to go the route in any of them. Shaw, 23, had a 1-2 record with Detroit before he was optioned to Charleston (W. Va.). He refused, however, to report to the American Assn. club.

Reached at his home in Garden City, New York, Shaw said he was elated at the trade.

"I am very happy to go to Chicago," the young right-hander said. "I just talked with Eddie Short (Chicago traveling secretary) and he told me that Manager Al Lopez will give me an opportunity to pitch. At Detroit, under the circumstances, being in last place, the Tigers couldn't afford to gamble with me. I have no complaints against the Detroit front office."

"I think it's a good deal for both sides," McHale said. "We needed a lefthanded hitter with some power and believe Francona is going to be a good ball player. He can run and throw. Our players always liked Fischer. We need a relief pitcher and he throws a sinker ball."

"Boone has been a great ball player for us and he should help them because they need a man who can step in there and drive in some runs. Shaw has a great arm and he may develop but we decided to give up on him."

At an official age of 32, Gavilan still has enough left to rate a sixth-place ranking among the welterweights in Ring Magazine. Actually, he now is a medium sized middleweight at about 135 pounds.

Bahama, 25, has a 48-8-1 record to Gavilan's 106-29-6.

Six From Carolina

ROXBORO, N. C. (AP)—Six former Carolina League infielders are playing in the major leagues this season. They are Steve Bilko of Cincinnati (Winston-Salem); R. C. Stevens of Pittsburgh (Burlington); Joe Cunningham of St. Louis (Winston-Salem); Don Blasingame of St. Louis (Winston-Salem); Don Buddin of Boston (Greensboro) and Ray Jablonski of San Francisco (Winston-Salem).

Milo Tied To Horses

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Milo Valenzuela, the jockey who rode Tim Tam to victory in this year's Kentucky Derby, wasn't born in the saddle.

But he was tied to horses at an early age.

A fellow jockey, Hebert Hinojosa, says he and Valenzuela got their starts as jockeys the same way. As boys of 9 or 10 they were tied on race horses.

"There was no saddle," says Hinojosa. "You ride bareback and with rocks in your side pockets to keep the rope they use to tie you on from slipping off."

"When you get through riding in those match races, you're ready for anything."

Put On Ticket Drive

NEW YORK (AP)—The Yankees, in order to acquit regular ticket buyers with changes in the schedule due to spring rains, have put out the following announcement:

"The 1958 Yankee team with the great power hitting of Mantle, Berra, Skowron and McDougald, combined with the outstanding pitching staff headed by Ford, Turley and Larsen, is perhaps the most colorful club the Bombers have had in years. Here is a team that may well bring back the world's championship to the Stadium."

Play Every Game

Sluggish Frank Thomas and Team Captain Dick Groat are the only Pirates to play in all of the club's first 50 games this year. And of those 50 games, Groat has hit safely in all but nine, and Thomas in all but 12.

Maris, Ward, Tomanek Go To Athletics

Indians Obtain Woody Held And Power From K.C.

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians made a straight three-for-two player trade with the Kansas City Athletics Sunday night, sending outfielder Roger Maris, infielder Preston Ward and southpaw pitcher Dick Tomanek to the A's in exchange for first baseman Vic Power and outfielder Woody Held.

It was the second trade within four days between the two clubs. The Indians on Thursday traded Chico Carrasquel for Billy Hunter. Both are shortstops.

The trade was announced by Cleveland Manager Frank Lane in Washington. Maris and Ward played in both games of the doubleheader.

"Naturally, we wouldn't have made this trade if we didn't think it would help us," said Lane, a master in the art of trading.

Bragan OK's Deal

Cleveland Manager Bobby Bragan, who gave wholehearted approval to the deal, claimed "It gives us more balance, more flexibility, better defense and greater speed."

Ward, 30, a nine-year major league veteran who saw service with three National League clubs before coming to Cleveland in 1956, has been among the top 10 hitters in the American League this season. He currently is batting .338.

Maris, a 23-year-old sophomore in the majors, has been playing in centerfield most of this season for the Tribe. His batting average is only .225 but he has hit nine homers and knocked in 27 runs.

Tomanek, 27, a hard-throwing left-hander, has won two and lost three this season with a 5.62 earned run average in 57 2-3 innings.

Vic Hits Over .300

Power, a 27-year-old Puerto Rican, is one of the top Kansas City hitters and generally is rated among the finest fielding first basemen in the league. He is hitting above the .300 mark.

Held, 26, like Power, bats right-handed and came up through the New York Yankee farm system. He is a good defensive outfielder.

"We hated to let Ward go," Lane said. "He has done a real good job for us, but in Power we get one of the best all-around players in the league. He has power and speed and a terrific glove."

Detroit Tigers Send Boone, Shaw To Pale Horse

Tigers Send Boone, Shaw To Pale Horse

Bengals Receive Tito Francona, Bill Fischer

NEW YORK (AP)—Detroit Tigers Sunday traded infielder Ray Boone and right-hander Bob Shaw to Chicago for outfielder Tito Francona and pitcher Bill Fischer.

Boone, 34, has appeared in 39 games this year and is batting .237. He has six home runs and 20 runs batted in. Francona, batting .258 in 41 games, has only one home run with 10 RBIs. The 24-year-old lefthanded batter, was acquired last winter from Baltimore in a deal which also brought Billy Goodman and Ray Moore for Larry Doby, and Jack Harshman, Jim Marshall and Russ Hemans.

Refused To Report
Fischer, 27, has a 2-3 record, pitching mostly in relief. He started three games and failed to go the route in any of them. Shaw, 23, had a 1-2 record with Detroit before he was optioned to Charleston (W. Va.). He refused, however, to report to the American Assn. club.

Reached at his home in Garden City, New York, Shaw said he was elated at the trade.

"I am very happy to go to Chicago," the young right-hander said. "I just talked with Eddie Short (Chicago traveling secretary) and he told me that Manager Al Lopez will give me an opportunity to pitch. At Detroit, under the circumstances, being in last place, the Tigers couldn't afford to gamble with me. I have no complaints against the Detroit front office."

"I think it's a good deal for both sides," McHale said. "We needed a lefthanded hitter with some power and believe Francona is going to be a good ball player. He can run and throw. Our players always liked Fischer. We need a relief pitcher and he throws a sinker ball."

"Boone has been a great ball player for us and he should help them because they need a man who can step in there and drive in some runs. Shaw has a great arm and he may develop but we decided to give up on him."

Gavilan, Bahama Meet Wednesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Kid Gavilan, always ready for action, fights his 142nd pro fight Wednesday night at Miami Beach when the former world welter champion takes on Yama Bahama of the British West Indies.

This will be the Cuban Keady's 46th appearance before the television cameras. He dates way back to the era of the six-inch picture tube.

At an official age of 32, Gavilan still has enough left to rate a sixth-place ranking among the welterweights in Ring Magazine. Actually, he now is a medium sized middleweight at about 135 pounds.

Bahama, 25, has a 48-8-1 record to Gavilan's 106-29-6.

Play Every Game
Sluggers Frank Thomas and Team Captain Dick Groat are the only Pirates to play in all of the club's first 50 games this year. And of those 50 games, Groat has hit safely in all but nine, and Thomas in all but 12.

THIRD FLIGHT—Wayne Myers defeated John Diamond, 1 up on the 18th.

FOURTH FLIGHT—Vic Wonn defeated Kenneth Babcock, 3 and 2.

Indians Obtain Woody Held And Power From K.C.
CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians made a straight three-for-two player trade with the Kansas City Athletics Sunday night, sending outfielder Roger Maris, infielder Preston Ward and southpaw pitcher Dick Tomaneck to the A's in exchange for first baseman Vic Power and outfielder Woody Held.

It was the second trade within four days between the two clubs. The Indians on Thursday traded Chico Carrasquel for Billy Hunter. Both are shortstops.

The trade was announced by Cleveland Manager Frank Lane in Washington. Maris and Ward played in both games of the doubleheader.

"Naturally, we wouldn't have made this trade if we didn't think it would help us," said Lane, a master in the art of trading.

Bragan OK's Deal
Cleveland Manager Bobby Bragan, who gave whole-hearted approval to the deal, claimed "it gives us more balance, more flexibility, better defense and greater speed."

Ward, 30, a nine-year major league veteran who saw service with three National League clubs before coming to Cleveland in 1956, has been among the top 10 hitters in the American League this season. He currently is batting .338.

Maris, a 23-year-old sophomore in the majors, has been playing in centerfield most of this season for the Tribe. His batting average is only .225 but he has hit nine homers and knocked in 27 runs.

Tomaneck, 27, a hard-throwing left-hander, has won two and lost three this season with a 5.62 earned run average in 57 2-3 innings.

Power, a 27-year-old Puerto Rican, is one of the top Kansas City hitters and generally is rated among the finest fielding first basemen in the league. He is hitting above the .300 mark.

Held, 26, like Power, bats right-handed and came up through the New York Yankee farm system. He is a good defensive outfielder.

DE GAULLE

1940: De Gaulle, who had fled to England, rallies Free French to new resistance against Germans. He inspects French troops in London.

1944: President Roosevelt greets de Gaulle at White House. French leader had come to U.S. for talks on Franco-American affairs.

General Charles de Gaulle has been a dynamic and dramatic force in his nation's restless postwar politics.

Ever since the liberation the tall, angular figure who once was reported to have said "I am the Joan of Arc of modern France," has dominated the French political stage—now cajoling, now scolding, now threatening. He emerged as the champion of the right wing.

In his 67th year, General de Gaulle without doubt remains a national hero. He served with courage in World War I, was wounded three times. He refused to quit when the Germans overran France again, in 1940. He fled to England and became leader of the Free French. He became the nation's first provisional president after the Nazis were driven from Paris. He resigned in January, 1946, in a row over the size of the army. His party, the Rally of the French People, was dissolved in 1953. He went into retirement, waiting for the call to lead his country.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle: "Is it credible that at the age of 67 I am going to begin a career as a dictator?"

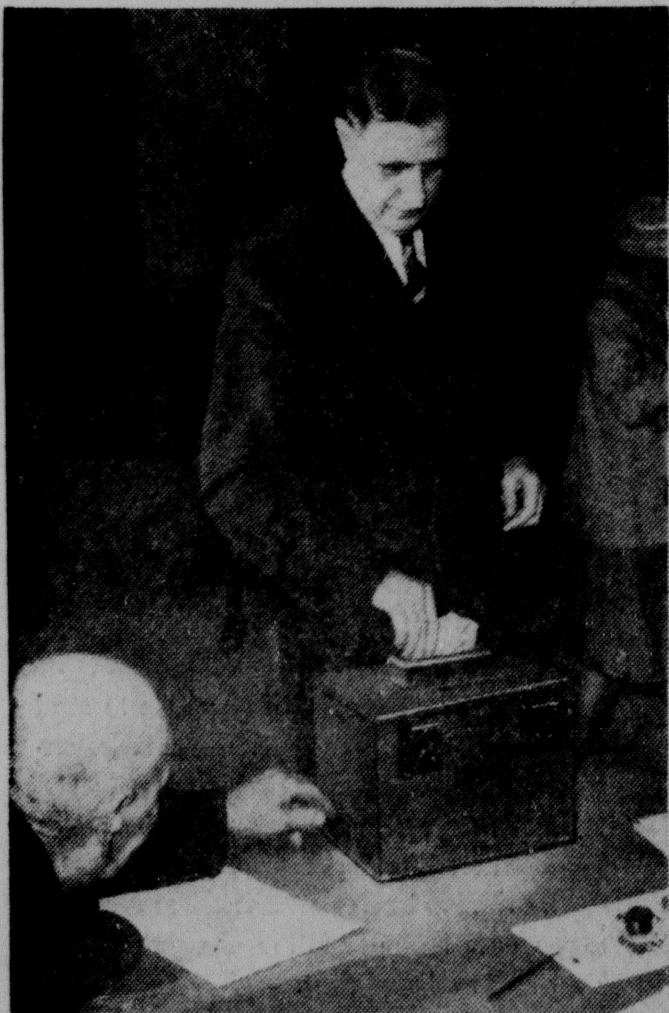

June, 1944: Joyous crowd greets de Gaulle in Bayeux when he returns to France for first time since Germans occupied country.

Aug., 1944: General de Gaulle, with Gen. Jacques le Clerc slightly behind him, leads parade down the Champs Elysee which marked the liberation of Paris.

1945: De Gaulle pins Bronze Medal on Gen. Eisenhower during reception tendered Allied leader in Paris.

1951: De Gaulle, head of the Rally of the French People, casts ballot in national election. His party, once strong, was dissolved in 1953.

May, 1958: The hero of World War II returns to political arena after six-year retirement. Friend cheers de Gaulle as he enters car after attending church service at Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises.

May, 1958: Demonstrations for return of de Gaulle to power break out in Algeria and Corsica. Here, crowd in front of Government House in Algiers voice their support for the general.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Party Dress Charm

A true charmer never wears her charm like a party dress. She doesn't put it on for special occasions, nor to make an impression. It's as much a part of her as her sparkling eyes and her gentle voice.

I don't suppose I would have written the preceding sentences today if I hadn't just been a witness to a small but distressing scene. A young matron who was lovely to look at sat near me at a restaurant. She was quite the shining light of the group she was lunching with, apparently captivating everyone; and it seemed to be a festive occasion. But just as both her party and mine were leaving, in the crush near the door, she turned on her nice young husband with a sharp reprimand and an expression as cold as her words. I hope none of her friends saw or heard. She couldn't have spoiled the delightful impression she'd just made more completely.

It's far from enough to be able to behave charmingly for a responsive audience. Gentle, understanding, generous-minded and good-humored qualities must go deep. They must be so well established that the unconscious reaction, as well as the conscious one, is pleasing. They must be so much a part of personality that they show easily, all the time and toward everyone. Surface charm is so quickly unmasked; and even when it isn't, the would-be charmer has an uneasy dissatisfaction with herself—she knows she's in some degree a fake, whether or not anyone else does. Unfortunately, family members so often suffer from charm lapses. They, of everyone, deserve something better—the asking of small favors, not demands—gracious thank-yous, not perfunctory ones—never having to suffer from belittling. Don't slip into bad habits with those you are most used to, into taking-for-granted attitudes that are unflattering even if they are not unkind. They're certainly no credit to you—you're earning black marks, not high marks for your rating in charm.

They, of everyone, deserve something better—the asking of small favors, not demands—gracious thank-yous, not perfunctory ones—never having to suffer from belittling. Don't slip into bad habits with those you are most used to, into taking-for-granted attitudes that are unflattering even if they are not unkind. They're certainly no credit to you—you're earning black marks, not high marks for your rating in charm.

Elderly Sisters Depart On Trip To Alaskan City

Two elderly widows left the Tri-State area by train yesterday on an extended journey which ultimately will get them to Anchorage, Alaska.

Mrs. Edith Emerick, 71, of Ellerslie, a seamstress at Martin's women's apparel store, took a westbound Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train from the Queen City Station yesterday afternoon. Her sister, Mrs. H. S. Emerick, 68, of Confluence, Pa., boarded the same train when it arrived in her Somerset County community.

The two sisters will continue their train trip cross-country to Seattle, Wash., where they will arrive Thursday morning. From Seattle they will take their first air flight to Anchorage, Alaska. They are scheduled to leave Seattle at 8 a. m. Thursday and will end their 1,100-mile flight early that afternoon.

The two Mrs. Emericks are planning to spend about a month in Alaska visiting an adopted son of Mrs. H. S. Emerick, Sgt. Thomas Reynolds, who has been stationed in Alaska about five years.

A decision to make the long trip to Alaska was made by the two sisters last November while they were on a visit to Freeport, Ill. Before their current trip, Illinois and Florida were the most distant points they had visited, and neither ever had been in an airplane.

In encouraging them to come to Alaska, Sgt. Reynolds urged the two women to be there on June 24 when Anchorage is scheduled for 24 hours of daylight.

On their return trip, the travelers will board a boat at Anchorage for Seattle. They will be on the boat three days and two nights.

Before leaving on her long trip, Mrs. Edith Emerick had the pleasure Saturday night of having all eight of her living children with her in Ellerslie. Besides the four in the Cumberland area, others came from Roanoke, Va.; Cleveland, Ohio, and Philadelphia, Pa., to wish Mrs. Emerick good luck on the longest trip of her life.

Both sisters have been looking forward to this trip for months with the eager anticipation of school girls.

LaVale Woman Seeks
Auxiliary Presidency

Mrs. Elizabeth Zembower, a member of the Ladies Auxiliary of LaVale Volunteer Fire Company, will be a candidate for president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Maryland Association which will convene this week at Ocean City.

At present she is the first vice president of the state organization. She is also the immediate past president of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Ladies Auxiliary.

Approximately 100 delegates from the 30 fire companies of the two-county association expect to attend the week-long convention. They plan to attend the officers' banquet which will be held tomorrow night during the 66th annual meeting. The entire companies of Barton and Midland will attend in a group.

William A. Wilson of Midland is a candidate for state treasurer, while John Prichard of Grantsville is a candidate for a five-year term on the board of trustees.

The week's activities will wind up Friday night with a huge street parade in which the Barton volunteers plan to take part.

Three More File Expense Reports

Three more candidates filed expense reports in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court on Friday.

Robert C. Hohing, who was unsuccessful in his bid for a Republican nomination for county commissioner, reported expenditures of $189.69 including the $25 filing fee. Harry T. Warnick, who also missed out for a Republican nomination for the House of Delegates, reported spending $83.25, including the $25 filing fee. He said he received a $25 donation but did not list the donor.

Edward T. Welsh, who was a delegate to the Democratic State Convention, reported spending only the $10 filing fee. Actually, Mr. Welsh was not opposed since there were only seven nominees for seven positions and he was automatically certified without having his name on the May 20 primary ballot.

Since the reports began coming in to Mr. Boden's office six days after the primary, he has received 57 of them, 50 from candidates whose names appeared on the primary ballots. That means that 13 of the 63 primary candidates have not yet filed. Eight of them are Republicans and five Democrats.

Marine Spending Furlough Here

Marine Staff Sgt. Joseph Montelone is spending a leave here before reporting the Camp Pendleton, California, for further transfer overseas.

City Election Will Attract Large Turnout

Over 65 Per Cent
May Cast Ballots

Between 65 and 70 per cent of Cumberland's 11,811 registered voters are expected to go to the polls between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. tomorrow to cast their ballots in the city general election when a mayor and four councilmen will be elected for four-year terms.

There was a 51.8 per cent vote in the primary election June 3 when 6,118 voters expressed a preference among 16 councilmanic candidates as the field was halved to eight general election candidates.

Besides the choice among councilmanic candidates which was offered primary election voters, those voting in the general election will have the opportunity of choosing between Mayor Roy W. Eves and J. Edwin Keech. South Cumberland business man, for mayor of Cumberland.

Four Incumbents

Another factor likely to swell the vote from its primary proportions is the fact that the voters will be afforded an opportunity to vote for or against a $500,000 Cumberland Urban Development bond issue.

Four of the ten candidates in tomorrow's general election are incumbents. Besides Mayor Eves, now ending his second straight term and sixth year as the city's chief executive they are Streets Commissioner William H. Buchholtz, Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan and Finance Commissioner John J. Long.

Two other councilmanic candidates formerly served on City Council. They are Mrs. Lucille Roeder, who was streets commissioner from 1950 until 1954 when she was defeated by Mayor Eves for the top spot, and George H. Tederick, who was water commissioner from 1950 until 1952.

Keith T. Sisk, another councilmanic candidate, also was in the 1954 general election but lost out. This is the first political try for Philmore F. Fleming and G. Ray Light, councilmanic candidates.

Bond Issue Question

The bond issue question on the ballot is listed on the 28 voting machines in 15 polling places as follows:

"Shall the Mayor and City Council issue Cumberland Urban Development Bonds of 1957, in the amount of $500,000, the same being serial coupon bonds, bearing interest not to exceed 4% per annum, maturing by May 15, 1977, secured by the full faith and credit of the City, the principal and interest to be paid from the General Tax Levy, the city reserving the right to levy liens on property improved; the proceeds to be used for street improving, paving, bridge construction, land acquisition incident thereto, contributions to public projects in the City where in Federal and State Governments are participating, including Industrial Boulevard and Crosstown Thruway."

Immediately below this bond issue question are the names of the two candidates for mayor and eight candidates for council, listed alphabetically. They are listed below with the primary vote of each of the councilmanic candidates in parentheses:

For mayor, Roy W. Eves and J. Edwin Keech.

For council, William H. Buchholtz (1,216); Philmore F. Fleming (1,685); William V. Keegan (1,706); G. Ray Light (1,146); John J. Long (2,891); Lucille Roeder (3,565); Keith T. Sisk (1,121); George H. Tederick (1,962).

Even Fido's Tags Not Safe From Thieves

The theft of a collar and license from a dog and a generator from a local junk dealer were among the complaints received during the past several days by city police.

Mrs. Catherine Fisher, 316 Paca Street, told police someone walked into her backyard the other night and removed a brown collar with silver buttons and dog license number 800 from her dog.

Charles Sullivan, who operates a junk yard on River Avenue, said a man came in to see about a generator and asked if he could have it tested.

After Mr. Sullivan consented to let the man test it, the fellow walked away and never returned with the generator, valued at $11.

A case of vandalism was also reported. Ray's Cleaners at 103 Pennsylvania Avenue said that the letter "R" was broken in the neon sign in front of the business establishment. A group of boys playing ball nearby were suspected of breaking the sign.

Teets Grocery Store, at 600 Montreal Avenue, reported an attempted breaking and entering. Police said two strips were pried off the front door and the lock was pried although entrance was not gained. A car was reported to have been heard in front of the store about 1:10 a. m. on Saturday.

Elderly Sisters Depart On Trip To Alaskan City

Two elderly widows left the Tri-State area by train yesterday on an extended journey which ultimately will get them to Anchorage, Alaska.

Mrs. Edith Emerick, 71, of Ellerslie, a seamstress at Martin's women's apparel store, took a westbound

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train from the Queen City Station yesterday afternoon. Her sister, Mrs. H. S. Emerick, 68, of Confluence, Pa., boarded the same train when it arrived in her Somerset County community.

The two sisters will continue their train trip cross-country to Seattle, Wash., where they will arrive Thursday morning. From Seattle they will take their first air flight to Anchorage, Alaska. They are scheduled to leave Seattle at 8 a. m. Thursday and will end their 1,100-mile flight early that afternoon.

The two Mrs. Emericks are planning to spend about a month in Alaska visiting an adopted son of Mrs. H. S. Emerick, Sgt. Thomas Reynolds, who has been stationed in Alaska about five years.

A decision to make the long trip to Alaska was made by the two sisters last November while they were on a visit to Freeport, Ill. Before their current trip, Illinois and Florida were the most distant points they had visited, and neither ever had been in an airplane.

In encouraging them to come to Alaska, Sgt. Reynolds urged the two women to be there on June 24 when Anchorage is scheduled for 24 hours of daylight.

On their return trip, the travelers will board a boat at Anchorage for Seattle. They will be on the boat three days and two nights.

Before leaving on her long trip, Mrs. Edith Emerick had the pleasure Saturday night of having all eight of her living children with her in Ellerslie. Besides the four in the Cumberland area, others came from Roanoke, Va.; Cleveland, Ohio, and Philadelphia, Pa., to wish Mrs. Emerick good luck on the longest trip of her life.

Both sisters have been looking forward to this trip for months with the eager anticipation of school girls.

Three More File Expense Reports

Three more candidates filed expense reports in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court on Friday.

Robert C. Hohing, who was unsuccessful in his bid for a Republican nomination for county commissioner, reported expenditures of $189.69 including the $25 filing fee. Harry T. Warnick, who also missed out for a Republican nomination for the House of Delegates, reported spending $83.25, including the $25 filing fee. He said he received a $25 donation but did not list the donor.

Edward T. Welsh, who was a delegate to the Democratic State Convention, reported spending only the $10 filing fee. Actually, Mr. Welsh was not opposed since there were only seven nominees for seven positions and he was automatically certified without having his name on the May 20 primary ballot.

Since the reports began coming in to Mr. Boden's office six days after the primary, he has received 57 of them, 50 from candidates whose names appeared on the primary ballots. That means that 13 of the 63 primary candidates have not yet filed. Eight of them are Republicans and five Democrats.

Marine Spending Furlough Here

Marine Staff Sgt. Joseph Montelone is spending a leave here before reporting the Camp Pendleton, California, for further transfer overseas.

Farmers May Seek Wheat Allotments

Allegany County farmers on land on which no wheat was seeded for grain in any of the past three years—1956, 1957 and 1958—and for which a 1958 wheat acreage allotment was not established, may apply for a 1959 wheat acreage allotment, according to James H. Weimer, chairman of the Allegany County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The owner or operator of such a farm must apply in writing to his county ASC committee by July 1, Mr. Weimer stated. Otherwise, a 1959 wheat acreage allotment will not be established for the farm.

State Firemen Meet This Week At Ocean City

LaVale Woman Seeks Auxiliary Presidency

Mrs. Elizabeth Zembower, a member of the Ladies Auxiliary of LaVale Volunteer Fire Company, will be a candidate for president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Maryland Association which will convene this week at Ocean City.

At present she is the first vice president of the state organization. She is also the immediate past president of the Allegany-Garrett Counties Ladies Auxiliary.

Approximately 100 delegates from the 30 fire companies of the two-county association expect to attend the week-long convention. They plan to attend the officers' banquet which will be held tomorrow night during the 66th annual meeting. The entire companies of Barton and Midland will attend in a group.

William A. Wilson of Midland is a candidate for state treasurer, while John Prichard of Grantsville is a candidate for a five-year term on the board of trustees.

Joseph Stuckey, Corriganville, chairman of the topics and statistical committee of the state firemen's organization; and George Comp, Deer Park, a member of the executive board, will meet at 2 p. m. tomorrow with other committee and board members at the Ocean City Fire Hall.

Presiding officer at the convention will be James Jarman of Ocean City, president. The convention will be called to order Wednesday afternoon and sessions will be held that day and on Thursday.

The week's activities will wind up Friday night with a huge street parade in which the Barton volunteers plan to take part.

Hughes To Make Court House Repairs

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners has awarded a contract to Walter H. Hughes to make certain minor brick repairs at the Court House for $65.

Mr. Hughes will repair loose bricks at the corner of the Court House nearest the County Jail and also will repair a flue.

The commissioners on Friday also received a letter from William Torkington, 955 Braddock Road, certified public accountant, acknowledging receipt of the commissioners' letter of June 6 appointing him to audit the books of the LaVale Sanitary Commission and pledging to do the work in his usual professional manner.

City Election Will Attract Large Turnout

Over 65 Per Cent May Cast Ballots

Between 65 and 70 per cent of Cumberland's 11,811 registered voters are expected to go to the polls between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. tomorrow to cast their ballots in the city general election when a mayor and four councilmen will be elected for four-year terms.

There was a 51.8 per cent vote in the primary election June 3, when 6,118 voters expressed a preference among 16 councilmanic candidates as the field was halved to eight general election candidates.

Besides the choice among councilmanic candidates which was offered primary election voters, those voting in the general election will have the opportunity of choosing between Mayor Roy W. Eves and J. Edwin Keech, South Cumberland business man, for mayor of Cumberland.

Four Incumbents

Another factor likely to swell the vote from its primary proportions is the fact that the voters will be afforded an opportunity to vote for or against a $500,000 Cumberland Urban Development bond issue.

Four of the ten candidates in tomorrow's general election are incumbents. Besides Mayor Eves, now ending his second straight term and sixth year as the city's chief executive they are Streets Commissioner William H. Buchholz, Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan and Finance Commissioner John J. Long.

Two other councilmanic candidates formerly served on City Council. They are Mrs. Lucile Roeder, who was streets commissioner from 1950 until 1954 when she was defeated by Mayor Eves for the top spot, and George H. Tederick, who was water commissioner from 1950 until 1952.

Keith T. Sisk, another councilmanic candidate, also was in the 1954 general election but lost out. This is the first political try for Philmore F. Fleming and G. Ray Light, councilmanic candidates.

Bond Issue Question

The bond issue question on the ballot is listed on the 28 voting machines in 15 polling places as follows:

"Shall the Mayor and City Council issue Cumberland Urban Development Bonds of 1957, in the amount of $500,000, the same being serial coupon bonds, bearing interest not to exceed 4% per annum, maturing by May 15, 1977, secured by the full faith and credit of the City, the principal and interest to be paid from the General Tax Levy, the city reserving the right to levy liens on property improved; the proceeds to be used for street improving, paving, bridge construction, land acquisition incident thereto, contributions to public projects in the City where in Federal and State Governments are participating, including Industrial Boulevard and Crosstown Thruway."

Immediately below this bond issue question are the names of the two candidates for mayor and eight candidates for council, listed alphabetically. They are listed below with the primary vote of each of the councilmanic candidates in parentheses:

For mayor, Roy W. Eves and J. Edwin Keech.

For council, William H. Buchholz (1,216); Philmore F. Fleming (1,685); William V. Keegan (1,706); G. Ray Light (1,146); John J. Long (2,891); Lucile Roeder (3,565); Keith T. Sisk (1,121); George H. Tederick (1,962).

Lifeguards Are Named

Five of Allegany High School's students have been named lifeguards at Harrington Manor and New Germany recreation areas this summer.

William H. Johnson, district forester, said three have been assigned to Harrington Manor. They are Robert Funk, Box 445, city; Lawrence Bailes, Route 5, Cresaptown; and Charles E. Wendt Jr., Route 5, Winchester Road.

Assigned to New Germany were David Stone, LaVale, and William O. Johnson, city. All of the students are qualified lifeguards, having Red Cross senior lifesaving certificates. The students will camp at the site.

Mr. Johnson said the swimming areas are normally open from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. and occasionally from 10 a. m. until 8 p. m.

Two lifeguards will be on duty at all times at Harrington Manor and three on Sundays and holidays. One will be on duty at New Germany at all times with the exception of Sundays and holidays, when two will be on duty. A schedule has been set up allowing the students two days off a week.
